Katrina,

With respect, I would recommend including the words "Wilcox and Lorraine Refineries" within the historical context document (4rd paragraph). If you approve, this sentence would read, "Due to these circumstances, EPA, USACE, OAS and SHPO agreed the most appropriate path forward would be to develop a historical context document to cover the Wilcox and Lorraine Refineries operation, including prehistoric and other time periods prior to the operations of these refineries, land use and change, disturbances and impacts, as well as oral histories from the current residences."

I recommend this because the East Tank Farm is part of the larger Wilcox/Lorraine Refinery. To tell the story/give a complete history of the area the Wilcox Refinery will need to be included. With that being said, if you decide to include this change, I don't think the following sentence is necessary, "In addition, by letter dated Sept 9, 2015, from the OAS, the area of interest was refined to include and focus on the East Tank Farm area of the site, specifically the eastern portion associated with the drainage."

Let me know your thoughts and feel free to call me if you would like to discuss.

Thanks!
